“ I met Coral a couple of years ago at the turtle pool at Good Sam Hospital. Such a sweet lady. I remember how interesting she was and how she seemed so aware of the world around her especially for someone her age. You could tell she had a good heart and concern for others. May God hold you close as He fills you with fond memories of the past. God's blessing to you all.

I first met Coral Martin Rupprecht in 1947 at the Bluewater Bible Conference in Wallaceburg, Ontario, where her father was the Director. Our paths continued down to recent years when she relocated in Nebraska with her beloved husband Art and daughter Becky Lindemann. It was back in 1979 that I encouraged Art to accept the professorship at kWheaton College for which I had recommended him.
