Doris was born on July 2, 1939, in Kearney, NE to Charles and Gertrude Smith Huffman. She attended Kearney High School and graduated with the class of 1957. After high school, she attended Kearney State College and received her bachelor's degree, continuing with a master's from University of California at San Lius Obispo and eventually earned a PHD of Education from Brigham Young University. She spent her life and career pursuing her passion for continually learning and the power of education for everyone. Over her 40 plus years in the field of education she served in many roles, ranging from Teacher to school Principal until retiring in 1993 as Assistant Superintendent at Santa Maria High School District. Doris loved traveling, reading, puzzles of all kinds, watching Perry Mason and of course learning new things. Her love of family was on display every day of her life as she reached out to help others without ever being asked.

She enjoyed 66 wonderful years of marriage to Samuel D. Corder untied on November 22, 1958, in Kearney.

Surviving relatives include her husband, Samuel Corder, of Kearney; sons, Bryan Corder of Anaheim, CA, David Corder of Enoch, UT, sisters Judy Sheldon and Carloyn Milligan of Kearney, brothers Robert Huffman of Thousand Oaks Ca and Richard Huffman of Kearney, along with a very special niece (thought of as a daughter) Krista Fritson of Kearney, numerous grandchildren, great grandchildren, nieces, and nephews.

Doris was preceded in death by her parents, son DeWayne Corder, brothers George and Bill and sister Marilyn.
